

The Intersection of COVID-19 and Laws: An FAQ for U.S. Employers

“COVID-19, declared a pandemic by the World Health Organization (WHO), has infected individuals in every state in the U.S. Not surprisingly, the impacts of COVID-19 permeate large facets of everyday life, and the workplace is no exception.

Most employers are familiar with the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and any relevant state or local paid sick leave laws applicable to their worksites. But there are other, lesser-known laws potentially implicated amid the COVID-19 crisis, including kin care laws, quarantine measures, and laws that apply when a state declares a public emergency.” Full Article

DHS Issues Advisory “Memorandum on Identification of Essential Critical Infrastructure Workers During COVID-19 Response”

“On March 19, 2020, the U.S. Department of Homeland Security’s Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) published a memorandum regarding “essential critical infrastructure workers” (CISA Guidance). The CISA Guidance’s purpose is to assist both state and local officials when making decisions regarding essential workers in their own jurisdictions.” Full Article

EEOC Publishes Additional COVID-19 Guidance, Including Confirmation of Employer Ability to Temperature Test Under ADA (US)

“The U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) has issued additional guidance for employers dealing with the issues presented by the COVID-19 pandemic. This information – available here – includes confirmation that employers may ask employees who report feeling ill or who call in sick whether they are experiencing any symptoms consistent with the coronavirus infection and may require employees to submit to non-invasive temperature testing to ensure employees are fever-free, each without violating the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).” Full Article

PH COVID-19 Client Alert Series: The Cybersecurity of an Entire Organization Working from Home

“As organizations continue to monitor the Coronavirus (“COVID-19”), many have announced work-from-home (“telework”) policies to mitigate the spread of the outbreak. The scope and speed at which entire workforces have gone remote pose complex challenges for organizations that may not be prepared for, nor maintain the hardware or software to accommodate, a wholly remote operation. Most companies were not built for this, and need to ensure their surge migration to remote working is executed securely.” Full Article

What Employers Should Know About COVID-19 Laws in New York

"COVID-19 has caused bars, bodegas, and other businesses to shutter in New York City and throughout the state. The New York Legislature and Governor Andrew Cuomo have responded with several new laws designed to reduce the impact of these closures on workers in New York by providing additional paid and unpaid leave and benefits. Governor Cuomo has also signed an executive order requiring employers to limit the number of people working in the office." Full Article

Connecticut Update: Governor Lamont Announces Additional Measures to Migrate the Spread of COVID-19

"As the world continues to battle the COVID-19 epidemic, Connecticut Governor Lamont recently signed two additional Executive Orders, 7E and 7F, which implement measures in Connecticut to further combat the fast-spreading virus. Earlier this week, Governor Lamont signed Executive Orders 7C and 7D, which, as reported in our prior alert, required that all public schools, bars, restaurants, dining establishments, gyms, fitness studios, off-site betting and theaters close." California Suspends Mini-WARN Obligations, But Still Mandates Notice

"No doubt recognizing the unprecedented impact on business, Governor Gavin Newsom issued an Executive Order suspending the notice requirements under the California Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act (WARN Act), Cal. Lab. Code §§ 1401(a), 1402, 1403. The Executive Order suspends existing law that could have otherwise required employers to provide 60 days' notice before instituting mass layoffs, relocations, or terminations, and could potentially have imposed steep penalties on employers who failed to do so. Certain notice obligations remain, however, under the Executive Order." Full Article
